From Watteau to Toulouse-Lautrec – A History of French Art, 1700-1900.

Tuesdays – 11am to 12:30 pm. Wednesdays 2 to 3:30 pm.

Prof. Chris Boïcos - Office Hours: by appointment

This course traces the evolution of French painting from the decline of the Ancien Régime, through the upheavals of the Revolutionary age, to the birth of modern industrial and capitalist France in the 19th century ending at the dawn of the 20th century just before the advent of “Modernism”.

Paris and its museum collections will provide the concrete background for the discussion of the artistic, social and political context in which the painters produce, exhibit and sell their work. The student will receive a basic grounding in the standard stylistic evolutions (Rococo, Neoclassicism, Romanticism Realism, Impressionism, Post-Impressionism, Symbolism) of these 2 centuries and will study the major masters of French painting from Watteau to Gauguin.

He will become familiar with the range of the Paris collections from the Louvre to the Musée d’Orsay, their history and their ways of presenting pictures to the public. The classic categories of painting - history, portraiture, the nude, genre, landscape and still life - will be used as the unifying themes in the course for the discussion of meaning, style and technique and their evolution from one period to the next. Rebellion against the past but also the constant need to return to and to re-evaluate tradition will be another important theme in our analysis of one of the richest artistic periods of Western art.
